KIM HUDDLESTON

Kim,

You're a real "neat" person and a good friend. I'm glad we have P.E. together! You're a sweet, pretty girl. Good luck always!

Luv ya,
Kelly

Kim,
Hey chic! How's your family? It's been real nice knowing you. Stay sweet

Kim,

Hey girl! Just think, if I hadn't met you, where would I be today? Don't answer that. Seriously, I'm glad we're best friends. I know we're going through some rough times right now, but don't give up on me. Just think about next year. It's gonna be better than this year. And then when we're Seniors! Wow! I hate to think what this poor towns gonna be like. Party after Party after Party! Well, we came real close at All-District. Next year we're gonna knock'em dead. Then we can go to San Antonio. The town will never be the same again.

Let's hope these teachers can put up with us for another 2 ½ years.

I don't. ~~Best Friends Forever~~ So.

Live In '85 Spirits Still High Despite HB 72

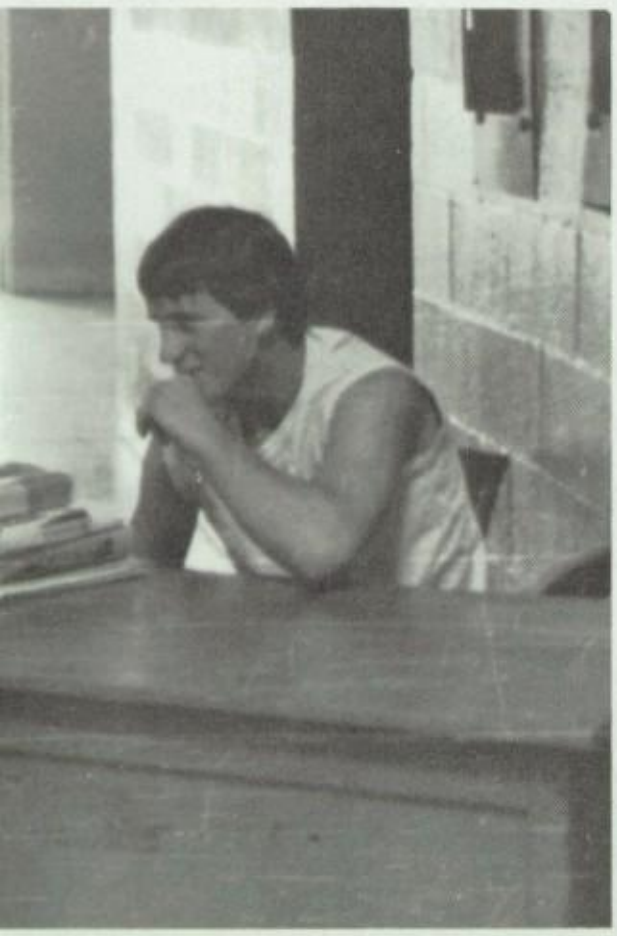
Live in '85. That's how L-E's year began. Even with 8 a.m. pep rallies and new grading system the students persevered, keeping spirits high and good times alive.

Extracurricular days, (which students once cherished, were greatly diminished by HB 72 and seniors were in constant fear of the possibility of no senior trip.

Teachers endured problems with roll call sheets, 7:30 a.m. tutorials and the controversial re-test policy and once again got into the swing of things.

Bob Beasly, Chris Williams, and Tim Williams "flash" their stuff.

Bart Veal and Gary Lumpkin talk about the day's activities.



Marilyn Parks models her dress as Milton Monroe looks on with a grin.

Maja McFaul cheers the Leopards on.

Tony Windham, Stacey Whitehead, Monte McFaul, and Tracey Windham get together after the game.

Spirits Remain High

Even though exemptions were cut out, students still faithfully showed up every morning for yet another day at ole L-E.

But even with all the changes, students' spirits remained high.

Spirits were seen through the rain-riddened football season as fans showed support throughout the year.

The girls athletic program proved even stronger than before as both the volleyball and basketball teams advanced further than teams of the past.

Students showed their spirit through academics as well, scoring 78 points in the District academic meet.

The changes by the state had its effects on the year but through it all the students showed that they were "Live in '85"!

Mrs. Blain, Debbie Duck, and Robin Sanders take a break from office work to find the owner of the balloons.

Leopard fans show a lot of enthusiasm during a basketball game.

Cheerleader Tonya Reed seems to congratulate Karen Junjak after being crowned 1984-85 Homecoming Queen.

Morris Taylor really plays his heart out during half-time.

Stephanie Lee and Claudia Trahan show their dresses at the fashion show.

Student Life

Denise Brown and Pam White arrive early at this year's graduation. The girls may be thinking two years ahead when they plan to be graduates themselves.

Mitch Butler helps capture one of those special events which helped to bring the school year 1985 to life.

Johnny Shelby, Clay McClure, and Steve Bennefield show their excitement after graduation. The three joined 144 other graduates in receiving their diplomas June 4.

Students live in '85

Some may wonder why the theme "Live in '85" was chosen to represent this school year. The year started out with some concern as parts of House Bill 72 went into effect.

The passage of the bill affected the school year drastically. Pep Rallies were first threatened and finally were held before the start of school.

Students then begin to find out that it was not as easy to miss school as it had been in the past. Passing grades were raised from 65 to 70. These are just to name a few.

But even with the changes L-E students stood firm. They did not let it effect their attitude on the year.

This is a perfect example of how the students at Liberty-Eylau kept alive during '85 despite HB 72.

Stacy Watkins, Stan Foster, Doug Hull, Milton Monroe and Huery Talbert seem to be talking about what to do next as they visited AstroWorld in Houston.

HIGH
PRINCESS

Debbie Duck, escorted by her father, was named Princess of Honor at the homecoming football game.

Spirits remain high through Homecoming rain

Regardless of the rain that continually fell Homecoming night, spirits were not dampened. The crowd, who were anxiously awaiting the announcement of the queen, moved from the bleachers at the football field to the bleachers in the gym.

The applause sounded out the thunder as Karen Junjak was crowned Homecoming Queen for 84-85.

The next night was perfect for the dance. The cafeteria was filled with wall to wall people who danced to their hearts desire all night long.

Denise Brown, Claudia Trahan, Pam White and Becky Cozart wonder who will be crowned homecoming queen.

Patricia Watson and date get married for bad and worse while attending the Sadie Hawkins dance.

Luevada Campbell, Andrewetta Paxton, and Kim Reece pose for the camera with a big smile.

Breaking Tradition

"Who are you going to ask to the dance?" This question seemed to be most asked between girls the few weeks before Sadie Hawkins.

The '85 Sadie Hawkins was its usual hit with the students.

Sadie Hawkins is usually a country atmosphere but if one looks at what the people were wearing one might think that he was on American Bandstand.

The variety of dress ranged from plaid long sleeves to florescent sweat shirts with large black lettering.

With this great change the '85 student body should be called "Traditional Revolutionist".

Presentation Ball Big Success

There was a big change in the Thirteenth Annual Presentation Ball held March 2, 1985. For the first time it was held at the ICWU Convention Center.

The theme was "Tonight's the Night" which was very appropriate because this was the night that the majority of awards are presented.

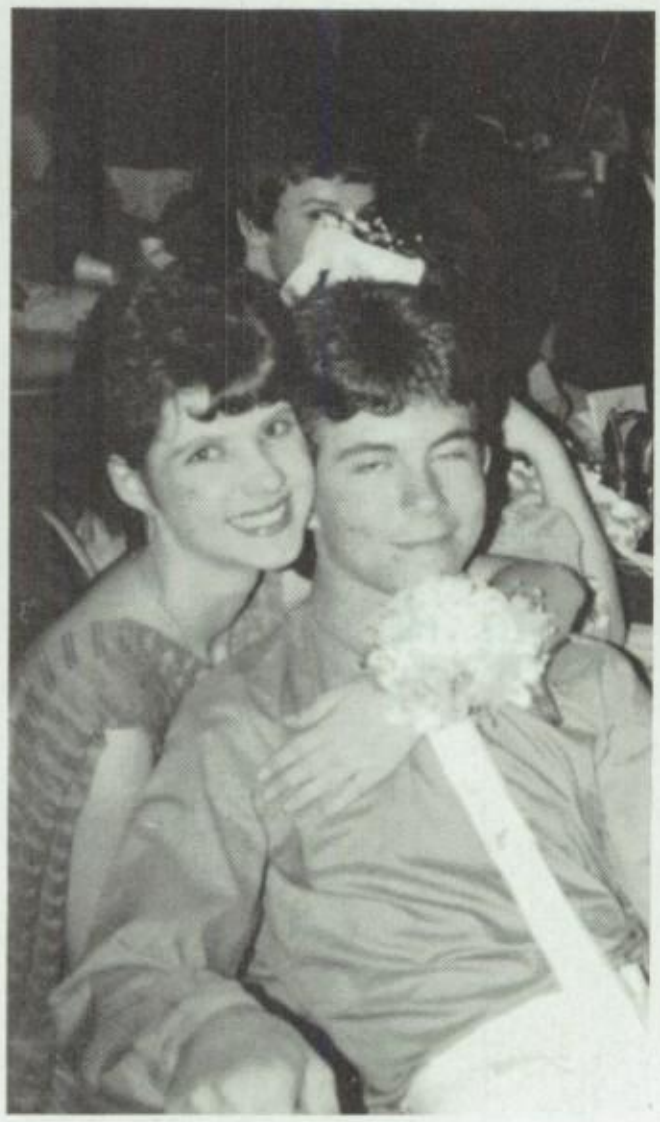
The evening glowed with girls in beautiful gowns and guys dressed in their Sunday best. The music ranged from Willie Nelson to Prince and the Revolution. The night ended at 11 p.m. with the announcement of Mr. & Miss L-E.

Lesa Utsey and Milton Monroe dance to the beat of "Chaka Khan". The music at this years dance ranged from Willie Nelson to Prince and the Revolution.

Angie Suggitts' date, Mark Jones, looks on as the awards are presented.

James Wright, Dee Dee Upton, and Mary Campbell quietly chat while attending the annual Presentation Ball.

Senior Colleen Waits and her date, Kevin Harris, join in with others who are waiting for the right song to dance to.



Chris Baker and Pam Collins enjoy each others company while waiting for the next presentation.

Claudia Trahan congratulates her date Chris Merritt after he was announced as the senior class Most Handsome Boy.

Follow your Dream

For the first year, the Liberty-Eylau Junior-Senior Prom was held at the I.C.W.U. It proved to be a worthwhile move because the prom was a success.

Doug Hull complimented the Junior class, who were responsible for the prom, saying, "This was the best prom I have attended."

The theme "Follow Your Dream" proved to be an appropriate theme for this years seniors. With graduation right around the corner, they were thinking about their dreams, hopes and plans for the future.

The average evening started out with dinner at Oliver Twist or Park Place then onto the dance to discover the various styles of dresses and tuxedos. While at the dance, the excitement was kept alive by the D.J.

This years prom will be a hard act to follow for next year's juniors.

Angie Bergt takes a break to watch everyone on the dance floor.

Bobby Collier steals Kim Bursey's punch while she isn't looking.

Alan Fincher appears to be trying to get his date to dance with him.

Pam White and Jill Smith show their excitement at this year's prom.

Doug White and Brit Veal seem to be giving some senior thoughts to their trip plans.

AstroWorld Replaces Six Flags

In years past the seniors have usually travelled to Six Flags in Arlington for their Senior Trip. However, this year it was decided to light up Houston with the presence of L-E.

Three busses left the parking lot on a Friday loaded down with seniors headed for AstroWorld. The trip was broken up with a stop in the mall at Lufkin to give everyone time to eat lunch.

From Lufkin it was on to AstroWorld where between 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. the seniors rode the rides and rocked to the sounds of Autograph and King Cobra.

Most seniors have had the opportunity to attend Six Flags in the past but a trip to AstroWorld seemed to excite those who were to travel to Houston.

"I was excited about the opportunity to attend AstroWorld for I had never been," Senior Colleen Waits said. "It was an experience I will never forget but if I had it to do over again I would choose Six Flags. Six Flags has so much more to offer."

When asked if he thought Six Flags had more to offer Morris Taylor agreed but said "It was nice not having to stand in long lines as you do at Six Flags."

Whether or not this would be the last trip for Seniors to AstroWorld only time can tell. But one thing that is known for sure, Seniors were live in AstroWorld in 1985!.

"Pay attention Luevada," Steve Edwards says to Luevada Campbell, as he shows her what a mechanical wiz he is.

Jason Overymyer dances for the camera as Dale Thacker seems to be distracted with a passerby.

Coach Dean doesn't seem to be amused by the senior antics.

Michael Finn and Cecil Phillips talk over what they have done since they have arrived at AstroWorld.

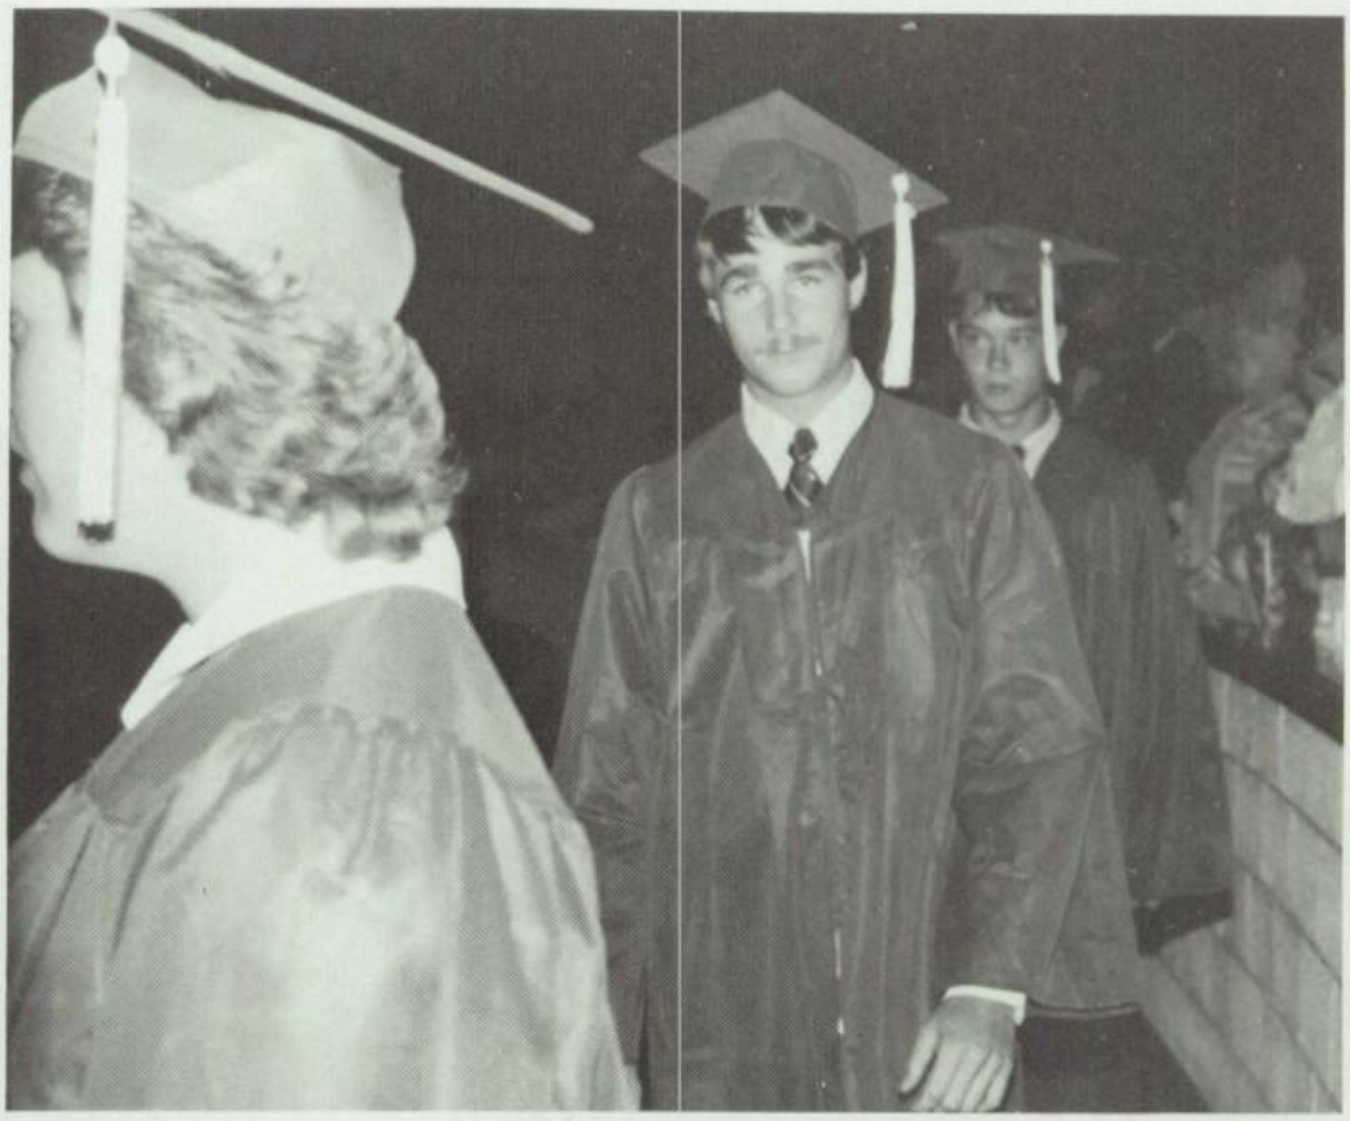
Missy Coleman seems to be thinking about graduation after Baccalaureate services.

Donna Cellers and Tina Cigainero look sad as they march in during Baccalaureate.

That's me! Nice Dress, huh?

The High School Choir, directed by Mr. Craig Griffith, added music to the services.

Chris Fincher expresses mixed emotions following Baccalaureate.



Barry Blackmon seems to wish Baccalaureate services were already over instead of just beginning.

Local Ministers highlight services

The Baccalaureate service was held at Texarkana Community College on Sunday, June 2, 1985. Rev. Joe Dickey of Hillcrest Baptist Church brought the message. Rev. Warren Ganter of St. Luke Baptist Church led the invocation, while Rev. Lennie Beasley of St. John Baptist Church brought the service to a close with the benediction. The Liberty-Eylau High School Choir performed three songs for the graduation.

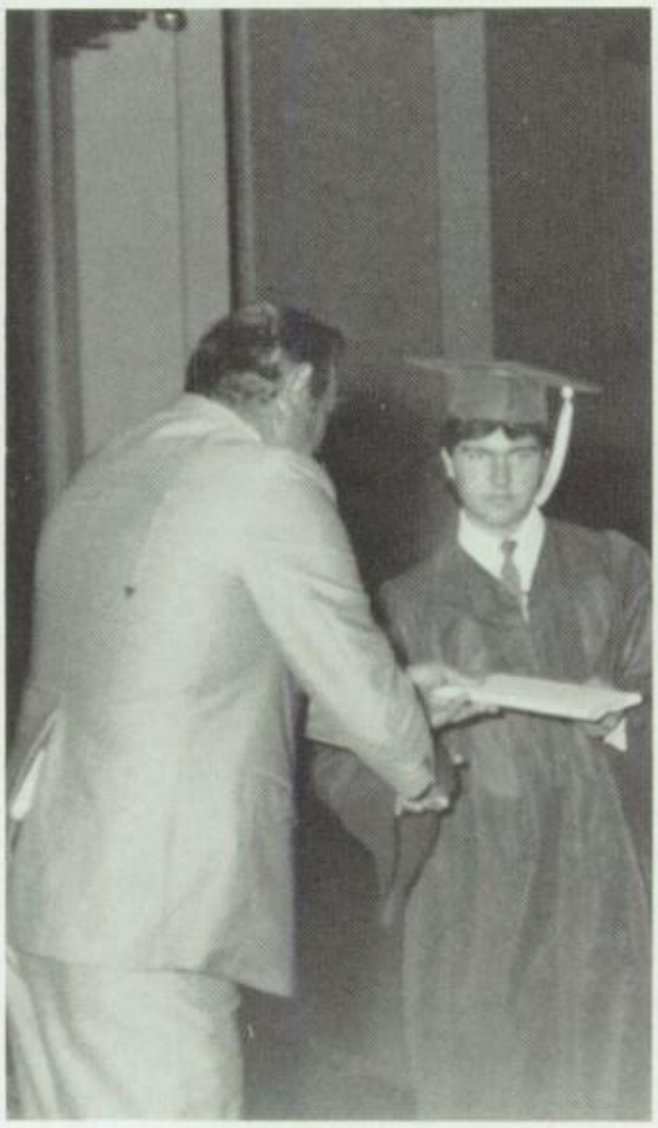
Graduation held in June

The Commencement Exercises were held Tuesday evening, June 4, 1985 at 8:00 p.m. at the Texarkana Community College. Deborah Duck, Salutatorian, gave the Welcome, and Linda Hinson, Valedictorian, gave the Farwell. Principal Paul Huddleston recognized the 145 seniors, as Mr. James Pickering, President, Liberty-Eylau Board of Trustees presented the diplomas.

Darryl Duck, Dorothy Buxton, Reuben Burnett, Kym Harper and Stacy Watkins lead the seniors in singing "We Are The World".

"Kyko" Stanten is wished well for the future by Junior Tracey Windham.

The 1985 Graduating Class became the first L-E seniors to sing their class song, "We Are The World", as a group.



David Reed tries to decide whether or not to wear his sunglasses through the graduation line.

Joseph Johnston receives his diploma from School Board President, James Pickering.

House Bill 72 Affects Sports

Liberty-Eylau sports were definitely affected by House Bill 72. With the new grade requirements, many students faced games where they were not allowed to play. Because of this threat hanging over their heads, the players buckled down and studied so that they could participate in their favorite sport.

L-E sports were kept alive although tough stipulations had to be met.

Coach Fowler calls time to encourage the team.

Optimistic outlook finishes with defeat

The varsity football team came into the season with an optimistic attitude but finished with a disappointing 4-6 overall record.

Despite the losing record the Leopards' future looked brighter after Sulphur Springs forfeited a district game. However, the Leopards lost two hard fought battles at the end of the season which put them out of playoff contention.

The key team leadership came from Chris Hancock, Rodney Davis, Chris Solomon, and Michael Finn.

Charles Noble views the game from the sideline waiting to get in the action, hoping he can make a difference.

Football Teams Have Bright Future

Freshmen Team

The Freshmen football team had a fantastic season this year with a 6-2 record and next years J.V. team has a bright future. "We feel like this is a very good freshmen team and we look forward to the next 3 years because these are an exceptional group of young people," Coach Fisher said.

The standouts for the Freshmen team this year were Kenneth McCoy, Herman Watson, Jerome McGary, Heath Johnson, Jerry Mangum, and Todd Alvarado.

J.V. Team

The 84-85 J.V. football team completed a semi-successful season with a 3-3 record this year. The weather played havoc on this years season, however, as three games were called for rain.

One bright spot came in the season as the Leopards defeated cross town rival Texas High for the first time in seven years.

Leadership for the Leopards was provided by Gary Lumpkin, Reggie Norris, Willie Chatman, and Tim Williams.

Season Doesn't Match those of past

The 1984-85 varsity basketball season was mediocre in the contrast of last season. The 7-3 district record was second best in the division, but the dismal 10-18 overall record was the worse in four past seasons.

However, the team had many obstacles in the way in their endeavor to gain the top spot in district. The element that probably hurt them most was the absence of Head Coach Don Tuttle.

"The lesson we learned this year will pay dividends for next year. I felt like we were inexperienced, but next year that will change."

Even though it was not a lustrious season, Coach Tuttle felt proud of the team because of making the playoffs for a fifth consecutive year. Despite the hunger for wins, the Leopards tasted the bitter taste of defeat. Coach Tuttle is optimistic about the future for the team.

The cheerleaders congratulate the team after the game.

Girls Finish District With Perfect Record

The Liberty-Eylau varsity were 20-2 overall in their quest for the best in their 1984-85 basketball campaign.

The undisputed 10-0 district record was the best in several years for the 8 4a champions. The team was led by senior Jean Burns who averaged 15 points and 14 rebounds, and Carissa Ross who averaged 19 points and 12 rebounds.

"This season was more rewarding than last season, but they both were excellent seasons," Coach Nathan Jones said.

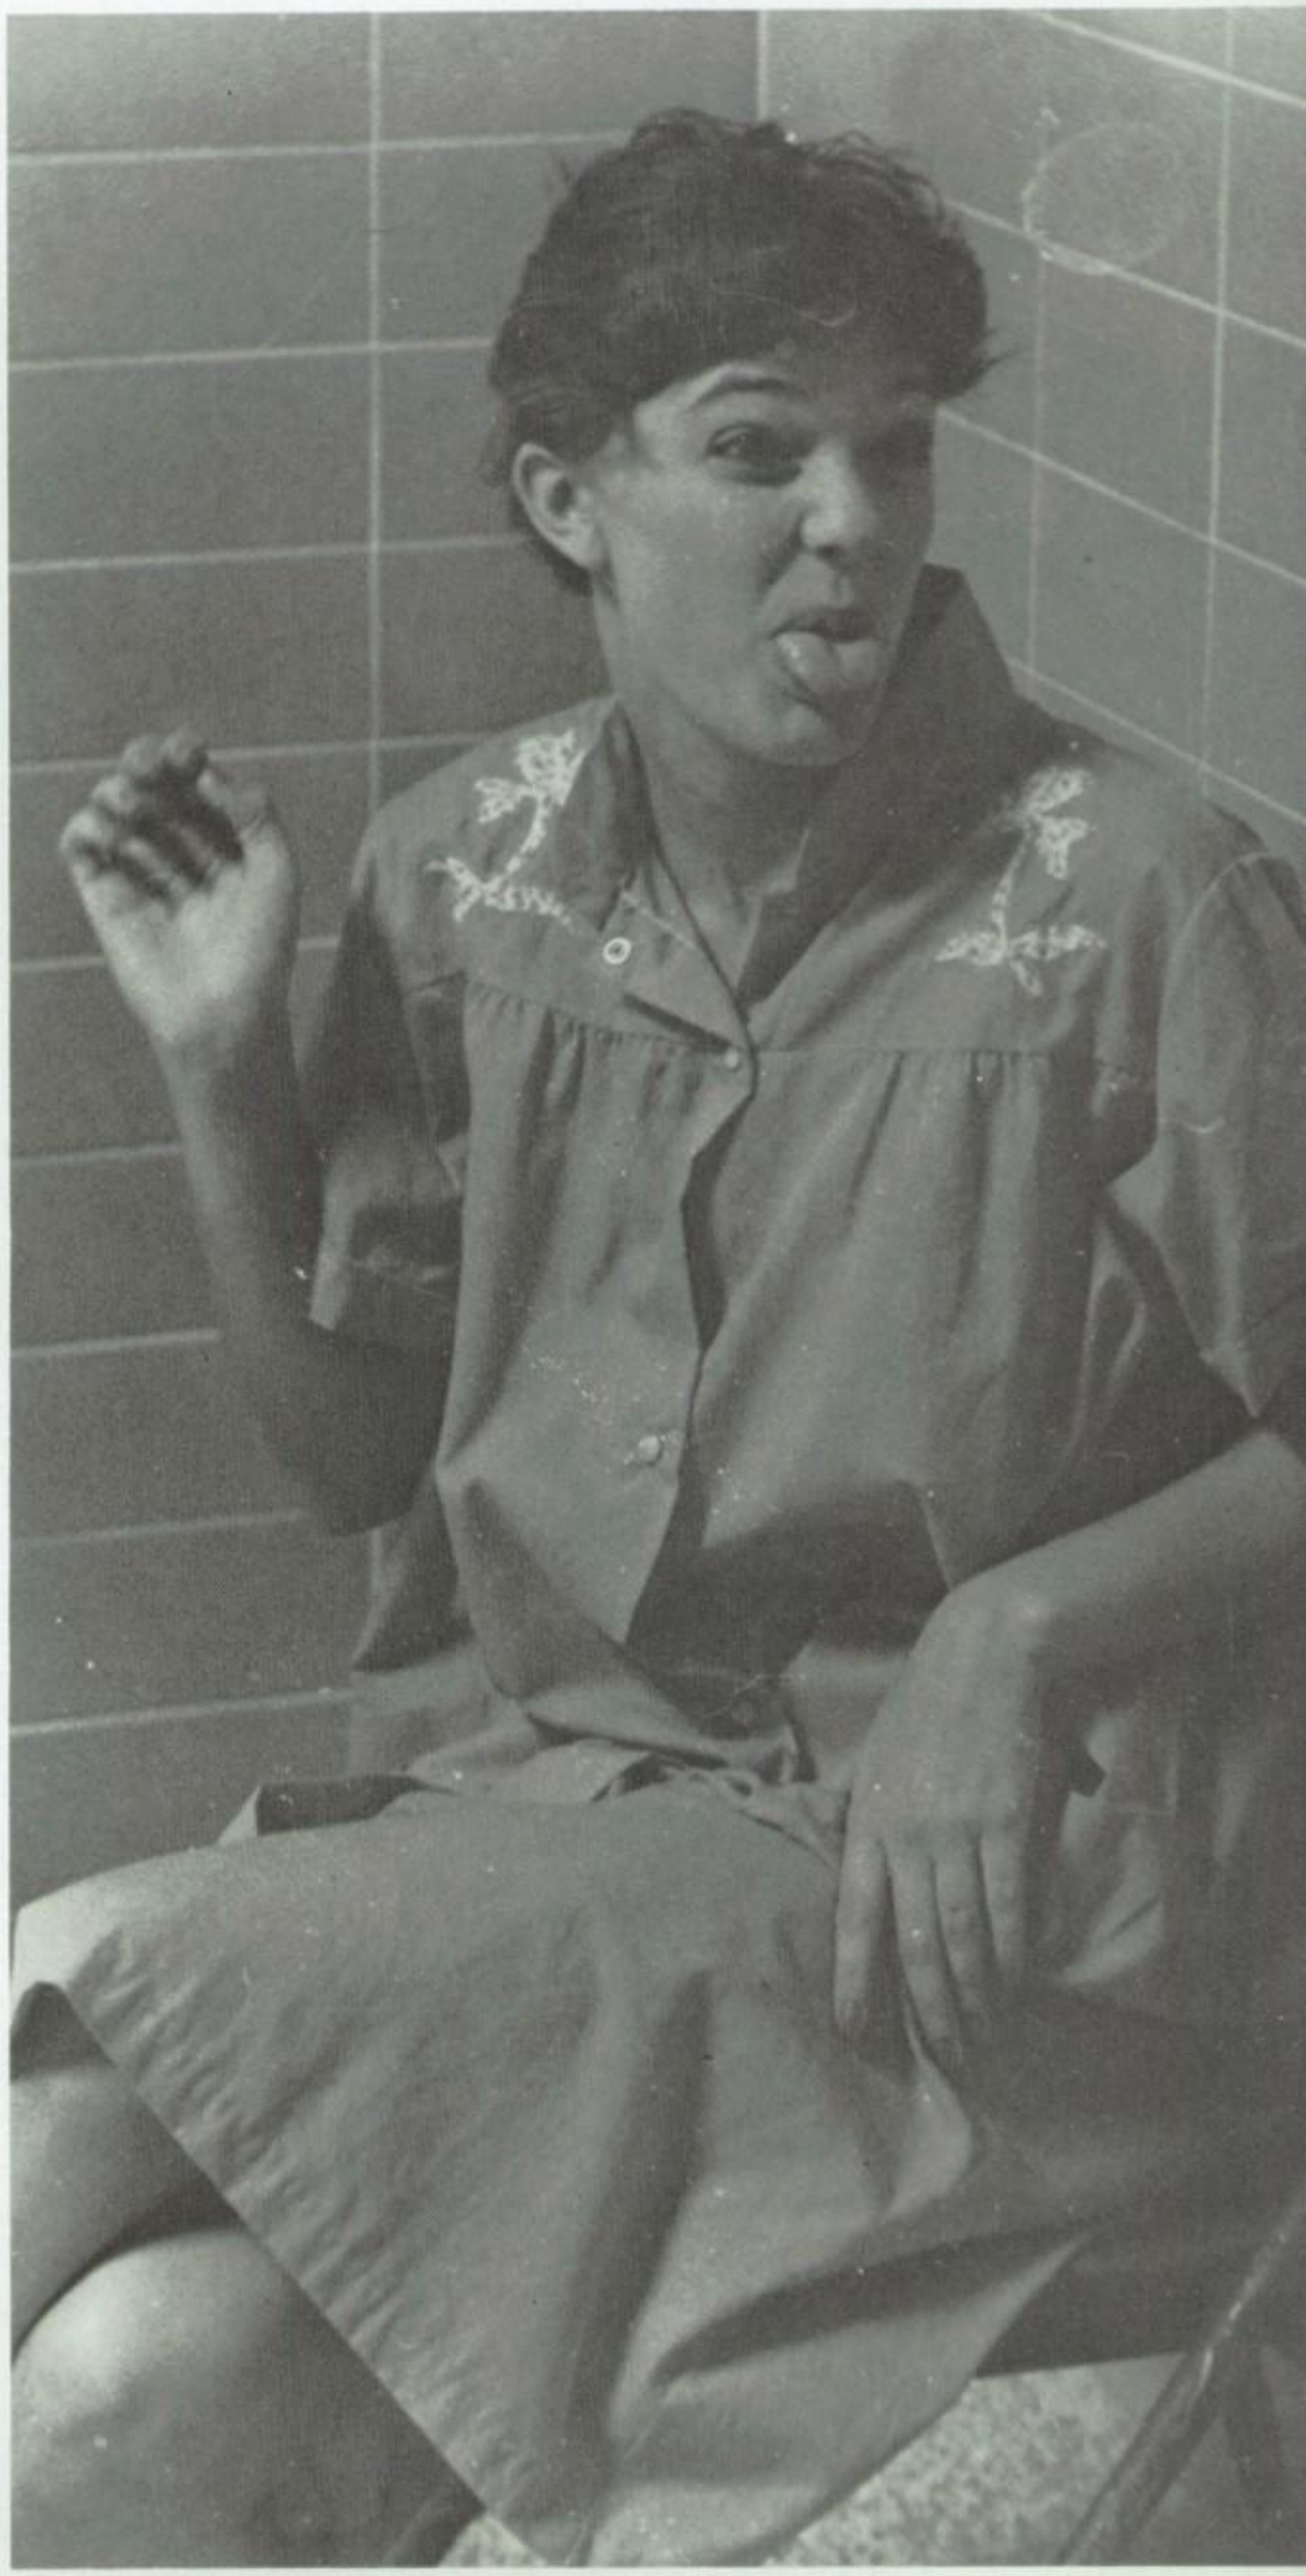
Club combines music with drama

The Drama Club has been quite active this year. Among their activities they performed the play "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" which was thought to be extremely terrific. At U.I.L. Contest they performed the play "The Rainmaker". Chris Hancock was chosen as All-Star Cast and Christie Raney was All-Star Cast Honorable Mention.

Chris Hancock was Student director of the club and Mr. David Ray was sponsor. There are a total of 30 active members.



Christie Raney clowns around to help release pre-performance tension.

Doug Hull and Chris Hancock are always clowning around even when they're not in Drama.

Chris Hancock, Glen Tinney, and Christie Raney perform in the play "The Rainmaker"

Future Homemakers have active year

Future Homemakers of America Chapter I had a good year. Members collected fruit and showed their talent by singing to the Oak Manor Nursing Home. They dressed dolls for the Salvation Army during Christmas Holidays.

The 1984-85 President was Dana Belin. FHA is under the direction of Mrs. Hamilton.

HERO Members work half-day

The HERO Club is part of the Co-op program at school, which means they go to school half a day and work half a day. There's one exception—the HERO Club members must work in a Home Economics related job. This year there are 8 members.

The president was Barry Webb; Vice-President, Kim Reece; Secretary, Donna Sellers, Sgt. at Arms, Eric Hill, and Tres. Andrewetta Paxton.

Three groups make up band

The Liberty-Eylau High School Band is made up of three important groups of people.

They are the majorettes, flags and rifles. They entertain at the pep rallies and football games by performing to different pop tunes.

The glory of it all does not come easy. Many long hours are put in everyday after school to learn the show and their routines.

Lesa Utsey relaxes while practicing the flute.

Reddawyn Bell looks tired as she marches in the parade.

Daryl Duck and Gina Hancock dance to the beat at the band banquet.

Helena Webster smiles with relief as parade nears an end.

Michael Bergt and Kelly Wright pay serious attention to the Drum Major during the halftime show.

Publications play important role

The Liberty-Eyleau Student Publications play a very important role on campus. Of course, these publications are the yearbook staff and the newspaper staff.

Bart Beal heads up the yearbook while Colleen Waits heads up the newspaper staff.

Both staffs are advised by David Ray. This is his fifth year to supervise these tedious staffs. "A lot of the responsibility of this years book fell on the shoulders of Stephanie Neal, Teri Brown, and Christi Dickey who used their summer to complete the book," Mr. Ray said.

People

Alan O'Rand, Stacy Watkins and Kelly Wright help Mrs. Snodgrass in preparing for the end of the year.

Milton Monroe and friends find time to shop at the mall before heading out to Astroworld on the senior trip.

The people of Liberty-Eylau all managed to stay "Live in '85"

Everyone, from the students to the teachers to the administration had to learn a new way of doing things when H. Ross Perot gave us HB 72.

Although it was very "nerve racking" with its rules of what was allowed and what wasn't, everyone came out of it all with only a few scratches.

Although most memories of school are of fun times, Nicole Bush and other classmates show us what it is really all about.

Jean Burns, Danny Patterson, Kim Walton, Clay Brock, Lane Manning and Chris Tedder show a lighter side of school.

Juniors Create Literature "Trivial Pursuit"

The game that took the nation by storm hit L-E this year. The junior English classes made their own version of "Trivial Pursuit".

Questions about various authors and their literature works were researched and put together by the 11th grade students themselves.

After their weeks of research the students played their very own game. They soon realized that they didn't know as much as they thought they did about the men and women they had researched.

Juniors Tonya Reed, Maja McFaul, Tracey Windham, and Claudia Trahan show their school spirit at a volleyball game.

Adult Privileges Can Be Reached

Many teenagers think they are not old enough for adult responsibilities. But the truth is they really are.

One of the most easiest to obtain is a checking account. Many teenagers think you have to be 18 or over 21 to have the privilege of writing checks. However, the local banks are more than happy to allow teenagers to have an account.

Another misconception is credit cards. Teenagers have been misinformed that you must be 21 to get a card. However, if you have a job—you can probably get a little piece of plastic that allows you to charge.

If only more people would look into this sort of stuff, more teenagers would not have to rely on their parents for everything they want.

The Never-ending Saga

Every year, year after year, students are faced with those dreaded term papers.

The teachers start threatening at the beginning of the year. Then it seems as if all is forgotten. Until after Christmas holidays.

Then (drum roll, please) the bomb is dropped. It always seems the deadline is set before the work is even begun. But first you must choose a topic.

Many students start out with one topic in mind and in the middle of it all change topics.

After about three weeks of reading references, taking notes, sorting notecards, etc., it is finally time for the rough draft.

One more week of changes in form and then finally the day arrives where the paper is thrown on the teacher's desk.

New Coke Becomes Old Coke

It seems everything is changing. The old faithful coke changed on us all. Many Coke drinkers flocked to the stores and bought up the remaining bottles and cans of the "old coke" before the "new coke" took over.

The Coca-Cola company might have thought they were doing us all a favor by changing, but it soon became apparent that the decision was a flop.

When the announcement of the return of "Classic Coke" was made—the entire nation could be heard breathing a sigh of relief. Also there were quite a few of "I told you so's" being said.

Closed campus rumors end year

Toward the end of the year, Liberty-Eylau was rumored to have a closed campus during the 1985-86 school year.

This quickly became the topic of everyone's conversation. Keith Griffith, of Keith's Grocery, drew up a petition for students, as well as parents and residents of the Liberty-Eylau area to sign.

In less than a week over 350 students and 175 parents and concerned citizens had signed the petition.

His hard work paid off. With his help L-E's closed campus was postponed for at least one more year.

Sandra Evans seems to relax after completing her meal at Keith's.

Whose locker is whose?

How many people do you know that actually use the locker they were assigned to at the beginning of the year? Probably not very many!

Sure, the first couple of weeks the locker is faithfully used. But then slowly the books, one by one, drift into other lockers.

If you drive to school or your best friend does, that is where many books can be found. Thrown in the back seat, on the floor or in the trunk, are some of the favorite resting places for school books. Most of the time no one really cares where those books go!

However, when locker check is announced many students can be seen running back and forth from campus to campus, about 5-7 lockers and an average of 3 different cars looking for those books.

The books then go back to the original locker for a couple of weeks. But then they all seem to drift back to those old resting places.

Tony Windham seems to find the photographer more interesting than Coach Mercy.

Prince causes controversy

One of the most talked about movies of the year was Prince's "Purple Rain".

Everyone had something to say about it. Many of the scenes were very controversial—such as the dare to jump into the lake, the father's suicide attempt and some of the scenes of Prince performing on stage.

No matter what everyone thought of the movie—the soundtrack was a huge success. Practically everyone had the tape and listened to it beginning to end.

Students battle alcohol abuse

Many teenagers are now being faced with the hardening reality of seeing their peers "under the influence."

The use of alcohol has become widespread. There is no possible way you can ride around on a weekend night and not see someone drinking.

What's more is that many are driving while "under the influence".

However, many students tried to put a stop to it with the "Contract for Life". The contract is signed by both the parent and the teenager. The parent agrees if the teenager calls and says they are drunk or their ride home is drunk, they will come pick them up-no questions asked, until morning.

If more people used the contract, more teenagers would make it to their graduation day.

As always students enjoy Mrs. Johnston's class

Students adopt "Wet Look"

The latest necessity for the hair of guys as well as girls is mousse. The foamy stuff looks like shaving cream but makes the hair do practically anything you want it to.

Senior Chris Merritt was seen around carnpus on more than one occasion with the "wet look". You can achieve the look by putting mousse on your curls while they are still wet. Then you let your hair dry without touching it with a brush, comb, your fingers, blow dryer, etc.

Mousse has almost replaced hair spray in many bathrooms. Let's hope it stays around for a long, long time.

Mack Simpson seems to enjoy one of this years tennis trips.

The expected turned to unexpected

As the group entered the room, no one knew what to expect. Empty bottles, cans and cups were scattered about. The food had been demolished. Business papers were laying all over the table.

Everyone kinda looked around and then found various places to sit. Some walked over to a table to get something to drink, some just looked around with a bewildered look on their faces.

Being backstage at a Rock Concert is not all what it's cracked up to be. The selected few waited for an hour. Some got tired and left. Some just walked around. Finally it was found out the stars of the evening had left without even saying good-bye to the privileged people with backstage passes.

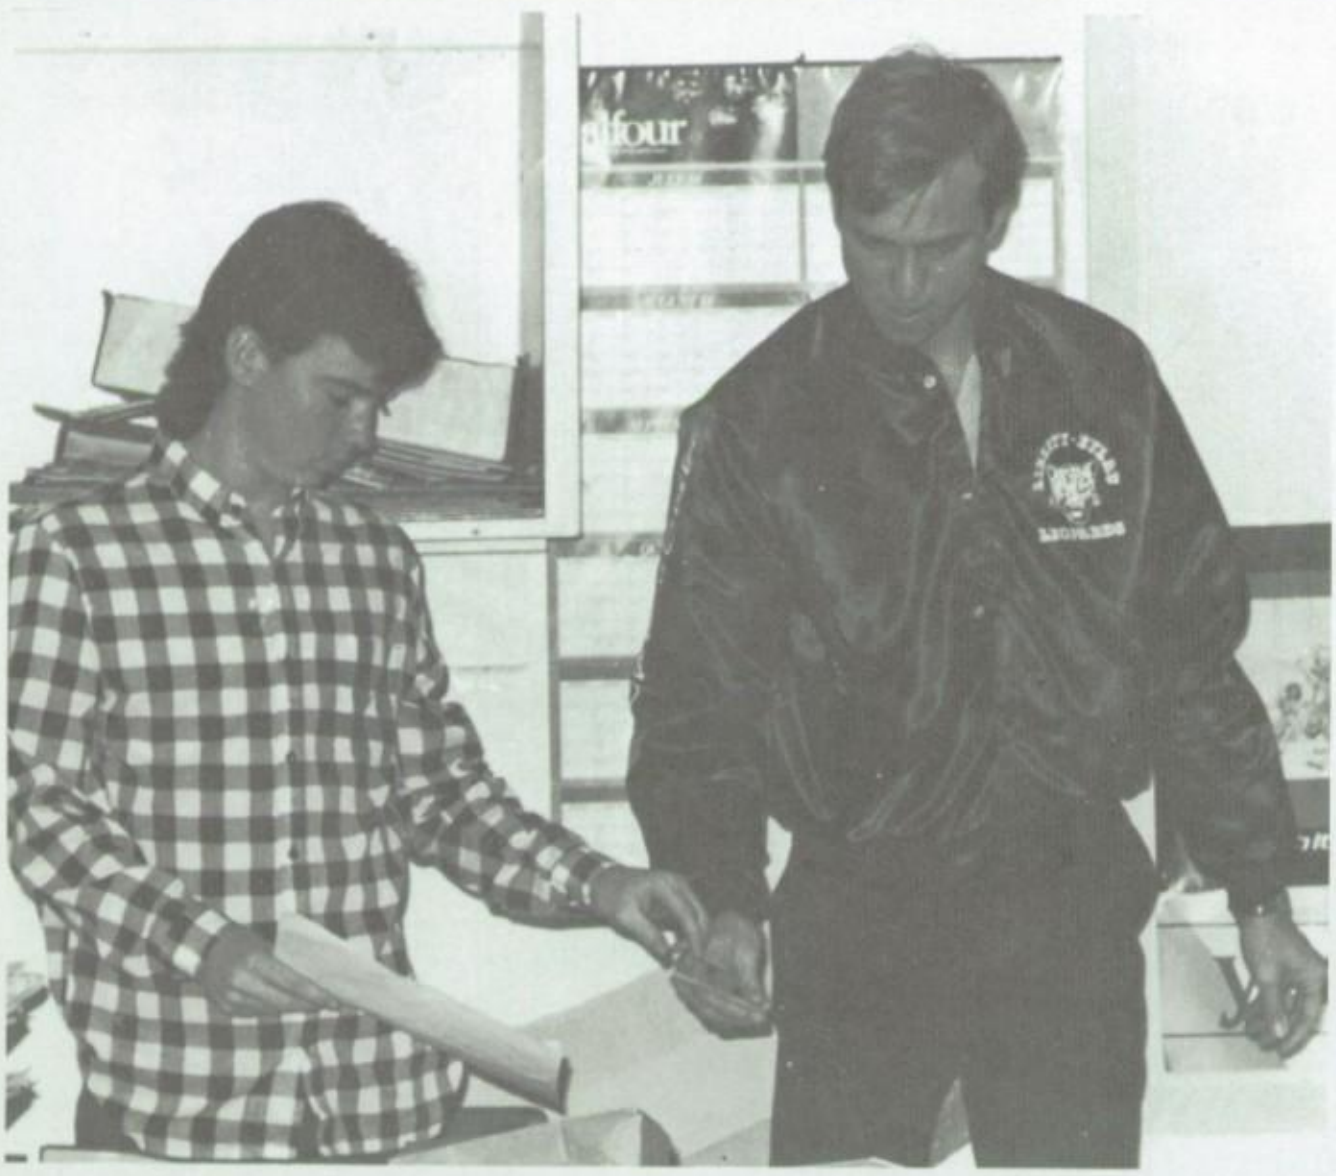
End of 85 sparks new beginning

Christi Dickey and Stephanie Neal look for possible layout ideas in an old yearbook.

The 1984-85 school year was certainly one to be remembered. Liberty-Eylau went through a lot of changes.

The students had to learn to deal with H. Ross Perot and his HB-72. Although it was not liked, everyone learned to put up with it.

Although we are sorry to see 1985 leave—we are ready for a new beginning. Let's hope that all we have learned while being Live in '85 will be put to good use in helping us to be "Live in '86."



Mr. Ray points out a few corrections in one of Brit Veals layout designs.

Kim,

You a "little" on the cranky side, but I'm still glad that we're friends. Stay sweet & try & [redacted] stay out of trouble, but I know that's hard to do. (Remember that our church loves ya too if you ever decide to come back.) Good luck w/ the guys, [redacted] I know that you won't need it, [redacted] but it's still nice to say: Be Good
